

Project for Interdisciplinary Pedagogy
Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences
University of Washington Bothell
The Graduate School Fund for Excellence and Innovation
2009-2010 Fellowship Opportunity
Deadline: January 28, 2009

Overview

The Project for Interdisciplinary Pedagogy (PIP) provides an opportunity for a diverse, highly motivated cohort of 4 to 6 University of Washington doctoral candidates to develop their teaching skills in the context of an integrative interdisciplinary program that spans the arts and sciences. Project fellows will work closely with faculty mentors in Interdisciplinary Arts and Sciences (IAS) and create teaching portfolios that include evidence of their hands-on experience with various theories and practices of interdisciplinarity and interdisciplinary pedagogy.

Prior to the start of Autumn Quarter, PIP fellows will participate with their faculty mentors in a day-long workshop focused on interdisciplinarity and interdisciplinary course design and pedagogy. During the Autumn, Winter, and Spring Quarters, each fellow will teach (or team-teach) one interdisciplinary course (totaling three) in an area related to his or her teaching and research interests, while engaging in quarterly workshops with the other students in the cohort and continuing to work closely with mentors. Further teaching opportunities during the 2010-2011 academic year may also become available.

Award

Project fellows will be compensated at the appropriate annual Graduate Student Service Appointment rate, including tuition waivers, and will receive an additional stipend of $750 for their participation in the early fall and quarterly workshops.

Eligibility

Applicants should be advanced to doctoral candidacy in their academic program at the time of appointment (September 2009) and have at least one year of teaching experience. We encourage applications from any doctoral student with a serious interest in interdisciplinary pedagogy and research. We also strongly encourage applicants with an interest in the theory and practice of community-based learning and/or service-learning course design.

How to Apply

Complete applications include:

1) Cover letter of no more than 500 words outlining your pedagogical experience and research interests, and how they prepare you for teaching in the IAS program. Please include your name, mailing address, primary telephone, email address, department or program, date of advancement to doctoral candidacy, and advisor's name in the top right corner of your letter.

2) A detailed proposal or syllabus for an interdisciplinary course you have taught or would like to teach.

3) Curriculum Vitae.

4) One letter of support from a UW faculty member familiar with your pedagogy and research. This letter may be written by your advisor, but does not need to be. (Only one copy of the letter is necessary; this letter should be sent directly to IAS at the address listed below.)

Please send or deliver five copies of the application materials so they are received by 5:00 p.m. on January 28, 2009 to: Project for Interdisciplinary Pedagogy c/o Rachel Pulver; Interdisciplinary Arts and Science, UW Bothell, Box 358530.

Finalists will be interviewed on campus, with notification of acceptance by March 6, 2009.

Further Questions

If you have additional questions about PIP, contact the 2009-2010 Co-Directors: Bruce Burgett (burgett@u.washington.edu), David Goldstein (dgoldstein@uwb.edu), or Martha Groom (groom@u.washington.edu). For more information about IAS curricula, faculty, and staff, see: <http://www.uwb.edu/IAS/>. For more information about PIP, see: <http://www.uwb.edu/IAS/about/pip.xhtml>.

2008-2009 PIP Fellows and IAS Mentors

Tami Blumenfield (Anthropology) and Diane Gillespie; Caren Crandell (Forest Resources) and Bill Seaburg; Erica Gunn (Chemistry) and Becca Price; Tim Jones (Political Science) and Colin Danby; Fernanda Oyarzun (Biology) and Cinnamon Hillyard; Sam Yum (Anthropology) and Linda Watts. Shauna Carlisle (Social Work): Second-year PIP graduate student mentor.

2007-2008 PIP Fellows and IAS Mentors

Shauna Carlisle (Social Work) and Elizabeth Thomas; Amy Lambert (Forest Resources) and Linda Watts; Kevin Ramsey (Geography) and Ron Krabill; Rebeca Rivera (Anthropology) and Warren Gold; Stephanie Scopelitis (Education) and Jeanne Heuving.

2006-2007 PIP Fellows and IAS Mentors

Melanie Kill (English) and Gray Kochhar-Lindgren; Georgia Roberts (English) and Ron Krabill; Jeanette Sanchez (Theater History and Criticism) and Kanta Kochhar-Lindgren; Matt Sneddon (History) and Linda Watts; Sarah Starkweather (Geography) and Colin Danby.