

Individuals & Societies Study Abroad

Why study abroad?

Studying abroad expands your understanding of the world and helps you develop usable skills, such as adaptability and intercultural communication, that are in high demand by employers and graduate programs.

Kelsey Bolinger, Norway, 2014

Can I afford it?

Absolutely! Program fees vary greatly depending on the program, but with good planning an affordable study abroad experience is possible. Most types of financial aid can be applied to UW-approved programs, and there is a list of scholarships available to students studying abroad on our website. Be sure to plan ahead! Make an appointment with us and we can help you start your scholarship search, both Study Abroad Advising and the UWB Writing and Communication Center can help polish up application essays.

What kinds of programs are there?

With over 500 programs approved for UW students you are bound to find something that fits your needs.

UW Faculty-Led Programs:

- Short-term (2 weeks)
- Early Fall Exploration Seminars (3-4 weeks)
- Summer Term A or B (4-5 weeks)
- Quarter-long

Partner Programs: Summer or semester programs organized by non-UW organizations

University Exchanges: Semester / year long programs at UW partnering universities

Internships: Quarter long professional placements through IE3, Omprakash, CIEE, IES, etc.

"I see how lively and friendly the people are. From the taxi drivers to the cashiers to the street vendors to the people at the beaches. I have experienced the genuine hospitality that my host family has provided for me."

Esther Ndungu, Brazil, 2017

When can I study abroad?

You can study abroad any time during your college career and we have programs ranging from a couple weeks to a full year, all of which guarantee UW credits. We encourage students to consider studying abroad early in their college career so the opportunity is available to study abroad again if they desire. There may be more flexibility in course scheduling during a student's first couple of years while they complete the general area of knowledge requirements. It is important to meet with your academic advisor to make sure your study abroad credits will fit well with your academic schedule. If you love it the first time, you may want to consider an IE3 internship.

Do I need to know a foreign language?

Not necessarily. While many exchanges and partner programs may have a foreign language requirement, there are plenty of programs primarily in English. Study abroad does provide a fantastic chance to start learning a new language as you will practice the native language when speaking with locals. A lot of programs also incorporate introductory language lessons into their curriculum.

Helen Kapitonenko, Sahara Desert, 2016

How do I start?

Weaving Stories - Fabric and Feminism in South India

UW Faculty-Led Program | Summer A-Term | India

To better understand how social change takes place, this program explores the weaving arts as an entry point and lens. Students will study the art of how sarees, carpets, clothing, and handicrafts are made, opening their eyes to a discussion about who makes them, how the chain of production has changed over the decades, and what globalization has meant to the people who work in these industries.

Americans in Europe: Exile & Belonging

UWB Faculty-Led Program | Summer B-Term | Europe

Following in the footsteps of artists, revolutionaries, exiles, and travelers before us, this program will take students from Madrid to León to Paris in an exploration of transnational cultural exchange, migration, and belonging. Our focus on the politics of travel and study abroad, the Spanish Civil War, and Black cultural production in Paris will allow us to situate ourselves as embodied travelers, thinkers, and cultural producers alongside the writers and artists we study.

Sexual Politics, Culture & Justice in Norway

UW Faculty-Led Program | Early Fall | Norway

Frequently lauded as one of the happiest, healthiest, and most gender equitable places in the world, students will explore the ways that sexual politics, feminist thought, and movements for social justice shape contemporary Norwegian institutions, culture, and daily life. Overall, students will gain a deeper sense of how Norwegian (vs. American) cultural and ideological positions produce different logics of sexuality, the body, rights, citizenship, personhood, and social & global responsibility.

Disability, Ageing and Development in Jamaica

UW Faculty-Led Program | Early Fall | Jamaica

Exploring the lived experiences of persons with disabilities and older persons in Jamaica, this program is journey across the island. Students examine what it means to be "left behind" in the context of a developing country. Students will directly learn from these disadvantaged groups by coming together, advocating for their rights, and addressing the problems that they face.

Urban Studies South Africa: Racism, Education and Development

UW Faculty-Led Program | Early Fall | South Africa

Racism, Education, and Development in South Africa examines the role of education and community development within drastically unequal communities. Students will work in teams at township-based schools and Community-Based organizations, gaining an understanding of the complexity of racism, the lack of basic resources and infrastructure, the impacts of violence and trauma, and the power of hope and healing.
