IMPORTANT:
This rule requires you to have a method of communicating and evaluating safety and health issues brought up by you or your employees in your workplace. Larger employers must establish a safety committee. Smaller employers have the choice of either establishing a safety committee or holding safety meetings with a management representative present.

There is a difference between a safety committee and a safety meeting.
- A safety committee is an organizational structure where members represent a group. This gives everyone a voice but keeps the meeting size to an effective number of participants.
- A safety meeting includes all employees and a management person is there to ensure that issues are addressed. Typically, the safety committee is an effective safety management tool for a larger employer and safety meetings are more effective for a smaller employer.

YOUR RESPONSIBILITY:
To establish a safety committee or hold safety meetings to create and maintain a safe and healthy workplace for all employees

You must
(1) Establish a safety committee.

- Make sure your committee:
  - Has employee-elected and employer-selected members.
    - The number of employee-elected members must equal or exceed the number of employer-selected members.

  Note:
  Employees selected by the employees bargaining representative or union qualify as employee-elected.

- The term of employee-elected members must be a maximum of one year. (There is no limit to the number of terms a representative can serve.)
- If there is an employee-elected member vacancy, a new member must be elected prior to the next scheduled meeting.
  - Has an elected chairperson.
  - Determines how often, when, and where, the safety committee will meet.

Note:

- Meetings should be one hour or less, unless extended by a majority vote of the committee.
- If the committee cannot agree on the frequency of meetings, the department of labor and industries regional safety consultation representative should be consulted for recommendations. (See the resources section of this book for contacts.)

You must

(2) Cover these topics

- Review safety and health inspection reports to help correct safety hazards.
- Evaluate the accident investigations conducted since the last meeting to determine if the cause(s) of the unsafe situation was identified and corrected.
- Evaluate your workplace accident and illness prevention program and discuss recommendations for improvement, if needed.
- Document attendance.
- Write down subjects discussed.

(3) Record meetings.

- Prepare minutes from each safety committee and:
  - Preserve them for one year
  - Make them available for review by safety and health consultation personnel of the Department of Labor and Industries.
