95% of the student bodies at UWB are commuters. Currently there is not a commuter-focused space for commuter students. Commuters would benefit from this space as this space would be allocated for them, by providing conveniently located amenities such as printing station, charging station, tv screens with rolling events to increase commuter students involvement and a rolling bus schedule. This space can also be a hub where it increases connection between commuter students. This space would aliv e the concerns that they voiced in the Orientation and Transition program survey where they were less excited about when attending UWB was commuting and loss of sleep. This Space would have a quite zone where they can sit down between classes and relax and possibly take a nap. Another large concern voiced in the survey was that they were concerned about parking. This space would allow for arrangements to carpool. Along with a quite zone, where they can sit down between classes, relax and possibly take a nap. Given that most commuter students and the whole student body need space to heat up there food.
